Content Standards

We encourage Users of the Website, including yourself, to contribute freely, as long as you do so in a responsible fashion. Content you post and any communications with other Users will comply with the below standards or it might be deleted or removed:

- Content must be accurate (where it states facts), be genuinely held (where it states opinion) and compliant with the law applicable in England and Wales and in any country from which it is posted.
- As a User, you must refrain from posting any personal information belonging to head teachers, teachers, assistants, students or any other individuals, such as full real names, addresses, telephone numbers or email addresses.
- Content must not be defamatory of any person, obscene, offensive, hateful, and inflammatory, promote sexually explicit material, promote violence, promote discrimination based on race, sex, religion, nationality, disability, sexual orientation or age.
- Content must not intend to deceive any person, breach any legal duty owed to a third party, such as a contractual duty or a duty of confidence, promote any illegal activity, be in contempt of court, be threatening, abuse or invade another's privacy, or cause annoyance, inconvenience or needless anxiety.
- Content must not be intended to harass any other person, impersonate any person, or misrepresent the identity or affiliation with any person. Content must not advocate, promote or incite any party to commit, or assist any unlawful or criminal act such as (by way of example only) copyright infringement or computer misuse.
- You agree that Content you post, will not contain any third party copyright material, or material that is subject to other third party proprietary rights (including rights of privacy or rights of publicity), unless you have a formal licence or permission from the rightful owner, or are otherwise legally entitled to post the material in question and to grant TheSchoolReport the licence referred to in the paragraph, intellectual property in the Content.

Moderating the Website

We do not regularly monitor the use of the Website so we rely on Users to inform us of any abuse or breach of the terms of this Agreement. If you become aware of inappropriate postings, Content or communications on the Website please contact us at results@theschoolreport.co.uk or visit our contact us page here XX. Inappropriate postings might come in different shapes and forms. Examples include: personal abuse, racism, bullying, or material posted in breach of your intellectual property rights.

If you feel you have been threatened or damaged or if you believe any infringement of your rights may have occurred through or on the Website, please contact us and we will deal with your request as quickly as we can.

If you believe that any Content on the Website is defamatory of you or your business, please inform us, providing your name and email address and giving a precise location on the Website where the alleged defamatory post is located. We will need you to explain in as much detail as possible why you believe a particular statement within the post is defamatory and what meaning you attribute to that statement. If you want to take the matter up with the User who posted that statement, let us know and we will forward your complaint to them. We might also, in our sole discretion, investigate your complaint and may remove, temporarily or permanently, Content at our sole discretion. If we believe that a complainant is unjustly intending to suppress free speech, we might, at our sole discretion post their complaint, edited or unedited on the Website.
